

Allison Hood is the Development Director for VOX Teen Communications, a nonprofit that focuses on self-expression and leadership development for teens in metro Atlanta. She is a graduate of Georgia State University with a Master's Degree in Social Work and received her Bachelor's Degree in International Affairs from the Georgia Institute of Technology. Allison is particularly passionate about traveling, building community in Atlanta, doughnuts and young adult fiction.

Allison believes in the important work that CARE does to end global poverty by empowering women and girls around the world; her time with the group has changed the way she views poverty and inequality.
